

ENERGY TRANSPORTATION EXCHANGE PRIVACY POLICY

This Internet site is owned and controlled by Energy Transportation Exchange Inc. (the “Company”). This Privacy Statement is designed to tell you about our practices regarding collection, use, and disclosure of information that you may provide via this website.

Personal information may be disclosed to third parties, located in Canada, the United States and/or any other country, but only:

(i) to contractors we use to support our business and other vendors who provide business support and technical services. Such vendors are obligated to treat employee personal data in accordance with this Privacy Statement.

(ii) where required by applicable laws, court orders, or government regulations, or pursuant to a valid request of a governmental agency.

(iii) to a third party in the event of any reorganization, merger, sale, joint venture, assignment, transfer, or other disposition of all or any portion of our business, assets, or stock (including in connection with any bankruptcy or similar proceedings).

Security:

Security protections are in place to prevent disclosure of your personal data except to those employees and third parties with a business need for access to your information.

Privacy Notice of Non-Employees of the Company and its Affiliates:

Non-employees of the Company and its affiliates may be granted access to this site for the purpose of performing their obligations to the company, as may be necessary to the business relationship between the non-employee and the Company.

Passive Information Collection:

As you navigate through this site, certain anonymous information can be passively collected (that is, gathered without your actively providing the information) using various technologies, such as cookies, Internet tags or web beacons, and navigational data collection (log files, server logs, clickstream).

Your Internet browser automatically transmits to this site some of this anonymous information, such as the URL of the website you just came from and the Internet Protocol (IP) address and the browser version your computer is currently using.

This site may also collect anonymous information from your computer through cookies and Internet tags or web beacons. You may set your browser to notify you when a cookie is sent or to refuse cookies altogether, but certain features of this site might not work without cookies.

This site may use and combine such passively collected anonymous information to provide better service to site visitors, customize the site based on your preferences, compile and analyze statistics and trends, and otherwise administer and improve the site for your use. Such information is not combined with personally identifiable information collected elsewhere on the site unless you have consented.

A “cookie” is a bit of information that a website sends to your Web browser that helps the site remember information about you and your preferences. “Session” cookies are temporary bits of information that are used to improve navigation, block visitors from providing information where inappropriate (the site “remembers” previous entries of age or country of origin that were outside the specified parameters and blocks subsequent changes), and collect aggregate statistical information on the site. They are erased once you exit your Web browser or otherwise turn off your computer. “Persistent” cookies are more permanent bits of information that are placed on the hard drive of your computer and stay there unless you delete the cookie. Persistent cookies store information on your computer for a number of purposes, such as retrieving certain information you have previously provided (such as passwords), helping to determine what areas of the website visitors find most valuable, and customizing the website based on your preferences on an ongoing basis. Persistent cookies placed by this site on your computer may hold personally identifiable information, but only if you have registered or have otherwise consented to the retention of personally identifiable information you have provided at the site. Otherwise, our site's server only knows that an unidentified visitor with your cookie has returned to the site.

You can set your browser to accept all cookies, to reject all cookies, or to notify you whenever a cookie is offered so that you can decide each time whether to accept it. To learn more about cookies and how to specify your preferences, please search for “cookie” in the “Help” portion of your browser.

A site may use Internet Protocol (IP) addresses. An IP address is a number assigned to your computer by your Internet service provider so you can access the Internet and is generally considered to be non-personally identifiable information, because in most cases an IP address is dynamic (changing each time you connect to the Internet), rather than static (unique to a particular user's computer). The IP address can be used to diagnose problems with a server, report aggregate information, determine the fastest route for your computer to use in connecting to a site, and administer and improve the site. “Internet tags” (also known as single-pixel GIFs, clear GIFs, invisible GIFs, and 1-by-1 GIFs) are smaller than cookies and tell the website server information such as the IP address and browser type related to the visitor's computer. Tags may be placed both on online advertisements that bring people to the site and on different pages of the site. Such tags indicate how many times a page is opened and which information is consulted.

“Navigational data” (log files, server logs, and clickstream data) are used for system management, to improve the content of the site, market research purposes, and to communicate information to visitors.

Your personal information may be stored and processed in any country where we have facilities or service providers, and by using our site or by providing consent to us (where required by law), you agree to the transfer of information to countries outside of your country of residence, including to Canada and the United States, which may provide for different data protection rules than in your country.
